& ANDY SCOTT

Honesty, Integrity, and Family Values First. That's the measuring stick Bob Thieneman Jr. of Estate Homes uses to manage his business and personal life, a tradition first started by RJ Thieneman Sr., Bob's father and mentor.

Growing up in the building business, Bob learned quickly that his reputation matters most in the long run. Driving through neighborhoods after church on Sunday, sweeping homes, and cleaning jobsites are just a few of the dreaded, turned cherished childhood memories. "My first job was cleaning up around jobsites", say Bob. "I learned at a young age the value of hard work".

Andy Scott, a partner in Estate Homes, also grew up in the homebuilding business and is a dedicated, hands-on builder with hundreds of delighted homeowners to his credit.

In the early 1980's, Andy drew his home plans by hand as a draftsman for a top 20 national builder. Keeping pace with improving technology, Andy currently utilizes his Computer Aided Design (CAD) expertise as an invaluable tool to assist homeowners in the decision-making process. "Our customers are amazed how quickly we can alter and fine-tune design options in a single meeting." says Andy.

Vowing to be at the forefront of building trends, Estate Homes is currently incorporating the very popular 2007 Designing for Women concepts into their home plans. In addition, every home is Energy Star Certified for modernized fuel efficiency. Top quality customer care is insured through the well recognized Pro-Home Warranty Group.

The Estate Homes building team is proud to be a Registered Home Builder with the Louisville Home Builders Association, where Bob has served on the Board of Directors for the last 13 years. Bob also serves on the Registered Builder Committee, which oversees and critiques potential new builders.

Bob and Andy look forward to building your new home.
