

Hardy Builders is a second generation home building company owned by Daryl Hardy. His father, Gene Hardy, started the business in 1957, teaching Daryl every phase of home building: from site/plan selection to financing; from hiring/ supervising subcontractors to selling the completed home and providing customer satisfaction.

Quality is not just a catch phrase to the company. Daryl insures it first and foremost by being on the construction site daily. "Attention to detail is maintained through the entire building process, including phases of construction a lot of buyers are unfamiliar with---foundation and framing," says Hardy.

"Personal supervision is guaranteed on every home built."

While every home buyer will be amazed with the attractive finishes provided, Hardy Builders knows the extreme importance of constructing a solid frame and foundation that is level, plumb and square, insuring a true quality built home that will last.

During his career, Daryl has owned an ASHI certified home inspection firm, Benchmark Inspection Service. This experience as an inspector brings valuable insight and perspective to the business.

"I heard someone refer to an inspector as 'Old School'", explains Hardy. "Well, if integrity and quality workmanship are 'Old School', then count me in."
